

Supply Chain Consulting

In 2022 Healthcare Supply Chain faces unprecedented challenges. A 2021 National Institute for Healthcare study showed that 99 percent of Healthcare Organizations experienced systemic issues with raw material shortages, transportation cost increases, unpredictable back orders and labor scarcity/expenses. All these factors combine to make this one of the most pivotal times for healthcare organizations to make sure Supply Chain is functioning at its highest level, for patient and clinicians alike. The team at medSR offers a comprehensive assessment and consulting services that can deep dive into every aspect of your organization supply procurement practices and be catered to your systems exact areas of opportunity.
